

CAMPUS VANISHES, SEARCH COMMITTEE SOUGHT

The University of Nebraska at Omaha disappeared today, according to usually reliable sources.

Shortly after being tipped-off by a man with a southern accent, a reporter arrived on the scene and found nothing left of the familiar aesthetic blend of red brick and concrete.

The administration declined to immediately comment on the situation. A spokesman said, "If the university had disappeared, surely we would know about it first and as yet no one has told us about it." He said the Office of University Relations was in the process of preparing a release concerning the "alleged rumor of the so-called disappearance of the alleged campus."

Something Was Wrong

Students questioned about the matter said they had not noticed the disappearance and did not have time to get involved. Some, however, did say they had "sensed that something was wrong" when they had no difficulty finding parking places in spots where buildings had once stood.

A spokesman from NU President D. B. Varner's office denied that the disappearance of the UNO campus buildings was part of a plan to move all classes to Lincoln.

A source in the campus planning office denied rumors that the elimination of UNO was part of a "secret master plan." He said the original plan to cover the rest of the present campus, Elmwood Park, Memorial Park, and Mrs. Norman Batt's front yard with a massive classroom-office building still held, but might be set back by this latest development.

An investigation into the eerie disappearance is underway, according to deputy police chief Arvin Pattavina. Detectives Barney and Clyde Pattavina, Sergeant Darryl Pattavina, and Patrolmen Earl and Fred Pattavina have been assigned to the case. UNO Campus security guard Moose Pattavina reported seeing a man in a trenchcoat lurking around the campus at night. He said it could have been taken while security guards were occupied elsewhere conducting a raid in connection with alcohol violations.

Moscow Not Involved

Meanwhile, Chancellor Roskens was unavailable for comment. Sources in his office maintained there was no connection between his recent trip to Moscow, the Nixon administration's efforts for improved trade relations with the Soviets, and the recent disappearance of the Omaha campus.

The Chancellor's office also denied rumors that an entire new campus would be brought in from Kent, Ohio.

A spokesman for the University Systems Office in Lincoln called the tragedy "tragic" and said, "It's tough luck, but that's the way it crumbles, cookie-wise." He continued, "You may rest assured, however, that when we learn the identities of those responsible, this office will immediately route a harshly-worded memo to those involved."

Meanwhile, the UNO Young

by Line

Responding to assertions that the administration has been ignoring faculty and student input in the university decision-making processes, Chancellor Ronald W. Roskens announced today the formation of a new University Search Committee.

The Committee will be composed of one representative appointed by the Faculty Senate, one staff appointee, a student representative if one can be located, and four "outside" committee members selected by the administration to act as a liaison.

The Chancellor directed the new committee to divide into subcommittees and search for the holy grail, Eldorado, the fountain of youth, Judge Crater, and the Universal Truth.

The Chancellor asked that the committee begin its work immediately and report its findings next week.

Private Parts to Get the Axe at UNO

The Supreme Court ruled last week that states have the right to close down bars featuring nudity and other forms of "Bacchanalian revelry." The court gave state liquor officials broad powers to regulate "public health, welfare and morals" in places serving alcoholic beverages.

Local officials expressed pleasure with the ruling, saying it "vindicated" actions last spring which led to the closing down of topless night clubs in Omaha. According to one official, who asked not to be identified as either F. Donald Nixon or Gabby Hayes, "Now we can really tighten things up around here and make it hot for moral degenerates." He went on to say that the ruling "opened the gate" for the implementation of several other "improvements in the character of the community."

In addition to banning braless dancing, the city has also recently cracked down on the pinball machine menace in Omaha, putting an end to activities where hardened gamblers vie to win free "electronic thrills."

UNO Problem Source

Asked what impact the court's decision will have on UNO, the official replied that "this is one of our areas of prime concern. It's widely known that most of the city's problems can be attributed directly to the young people and the coloreds, and God knows you've got both kinds crawling all over that campus, and in one of our finest neighborhoods,

Lunch Made S.H.E.I.T. Head

In response to complaints that obtaining even a Bachelor of General Studies degree is too difficult for most UNO students, the administration has announced the formation of a new college, the School of Home Education, Instruction, and Technology.

SHEIT, which will be financed by the elimination of the College of Arts and Sciences, will offer more generalized degrees incorporating courses in radio and tv repair, baby shoe bronzing, accident investigation, mail order schemes, invisible reweaving, mink breeding, and bust development.

According to the newly-appointed Dean, Butch Lunch, the new program of instruction will offer students an alternative to traditional academic pursuits and enable them to "establish themselves now in high-paying professions with a big future."

The purpose of the college, in Dr. Lunch's philosophy, is to give graduates an opportunity to "hit the jackpot, flash a bankroll and impress chicks."

Experience Pays

Similar to the current BGS program, SHEIT will give college credit for past experience in the military, the Minutemen, the Knights of Columbus, the School Crossing Guard, Mouskateers and Boy Scouts. Credit is also being offered for time spent in other state-supported institutions including universities, mental hospitals and penitentiaries.

The SHEIT post will be Lunch's first academic position. He is leaving his current capacity as associate director of Mama Pike's East Omaha Goodtime Parlor to accept the appointment.

Hot Lunch Programs

Dr. Lunch spent his early years as a child. He later served in the Armed Forces. Lunch's educational background includes holding a Doctor of Divinity degree from the Irving Extension Institute and he recently completed studies for a Doctor of Paraphysiological Science at Ohio Christian College. Prior to that, Dr. Lunch received his high school equivalence certificate from the Army in 1947.

"SHEIT," according to Lunch, will offer several different degree

Student Apathy, Who Cares?

Taking into careful consideration all of the facets of those aspects dealt with previously, we can then extrapolate the necessary information concerning the viability of the various courses of action made available. Therefore, keeping in mind the existential qualities enumerated throughout by various segments of academia within the community and adjacent to the larger scope of material subject to discretionary application, we can clearly determine that the interface upon which we presently reside is, to be precise, indeterminate.

Casting aside the cautionary pretenses which permeate the texture of ambivalent paternalism, the travesty of the situation becomes interwoven within the context of that which has been delineated. Previous attestations to the nebulous fixations inherently abiding leave no room for doubt that individual necessities cannot be clarified satisfactorily without condensing into meaningful dialogue those relevant phraseological dogmas contained within the parameters of responsible coordination.

Therefore we can see that, without establishing the basis of a fruitful relationship between the factions of permissive issue-oriented particularization and the ubiquitous forces of omnipresence, the structuring of substantive entities of communication becomes passe. In this regard it can be stated succinctly that, keeping in mind the essence of the appropriate microcosmic allusions of decisive moment, barriers to the actualization of coherent impetus are, as such, so forth and so on.

Finally, with regard to and, nonetheless, concerning the problematic infestation of those tendencies discerning the nature of the relevant manifestations of situational ethics incumbent upon the innate data and promulgated thereunder, it can consequently be variously contended that, as will be subsequently implied, the dissemination of behavioral faux pas is, per se, et al.

In conclusion, let this individual practitioner of the prosaic inanities create the impression of clarity as regards a single unit of informational output, that is, so to speak, in keeping with the finest traditions, let us go forth and, as such, etcetera.

MOP MEN SCOUR CAMPUS FOR CLUES

This . . . is the campus — the University of Nebraska at Omaha. It's a place where people learn and teach and work. They give something to this institution and they take something away. When they take the campus itself away, I go to work; I carry a mop.

It was Wednesday. It was cold in Nebraska. We were working the night watch out of the janitor's closet in the Engineering Building. The boss is Captain Danger. My partner's name's Mystery. My name's being withheld by request.

We were in the first floor hall of the Engineering Building, playing a red-hot game of Hall Frisbee. As Gateway photographer John Windler — a lens witness — described it: "He fired a shot towards the ceiling — and it kept right on going."

Suspicion

Where was the ceiling? Where were the walls? A mental chill overwhelmed me, followed by a physical chill as the cold night wind whipped my body. I saw stars! The Engineering Building was gone !!!!!!!!!!!!!

I rushed to where the Gateway office used to be, knowing that if anyone was an expert on Around Campus, it was Stan Carter. But the office was gone and so was Stan. Then I remembered — he'd been playing deep . . . poor devil.

It was 2400 hours. Zero zero zero one . . . we regained our composition and spotted a looming figure wrapped in the dark gloom in the distance. We approached him.

Boldface Subhead

"Hold it fella, Maintenance Men!"

"Yheah?"

"Where ya goin'?"

"Whataya mean?"

"Don't give us that you're in a lot of trouble we saw you out here and we want to know why the campus is missing that's a violation of Penal Code Section 7 A-adam punishable by not less than one nor more than one-half year in the state prison or a fine not to exceed those of parking fines," I said with my eyes moving rapidly back and forth in a reading motion.

"It went that way."

He diverted our eyes in the direction of a quickly diminishing supply closet rumbling towards Council Bluffs.

Zero one zero five . . . we excused ourselves and got into our plush, four-door '67 Dodge Dart. My partner discovered that Campus Security had given us a ticket. In a moments, the results of that trial.

The defendants were found innocent due to there being no room for the Parking Appeals Board to meet in. They called us the Badge, Flatfoot, pig, fuzz, the Heat, Bad News, the Man, Cop, but never Police Officer!

GSA Report

Last of the Unwashed Masses

The last open meeting of the Graduate Student Association will be held today, Wednesday, December 13, in MBSC, 314 at 3:30 p.m.

The main purpose of this meeting will be to take action on the proposed GSA Constitution, which has been rewritten on the basis of previous Constitutions.

Other action will be the discussion of the Day Care Center which was tabled at the last open meeting pending further study by two members of GSA.

At this open meeting, as it will be the last formal assembly of GSA, those who presently hold positions on various committees, Executive Council, or are departmental representatives and who wish to no longer serve, or those who do not presently hold a position and would like to, are encouraged to attend this meeting and make your desires known.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those fellow Graduates whom I have had the opportunity to meet and work with through GSA. Also, thanks to those Departmental Chairmen who have assisted us with appointing representatives, to Dr. Kessler, who acted as Faculty Representative to GSA, Dean Carter for his direction, time, and sincere belief in a working GSA at UNO. Also, thanks, Mr. Renner, for without the Gateway, distribution of GSA news would have been most difficult, as the price and scarcity of sky-writers is prohibitive on our budget.

Scott McVittie-President, GSA

Letters to the Editor

Dear Fellow American:

As you know, we are now in the final stages of an historic Presidential election campaign — which will surely determine how you and your family live for many years to come!

Whether you are an Independent, a Democrat, or a Republican, your whole way of life is at stake. I believe that you, like millions of other concerned Americans, are anxious to help save our Country from the radical programs that George McGovern has put forward. This is why — regardless of your Party affiliation — I am appealing to you for help in re-electing President Nixon.

Specifically, I ask you to contribute $15 . . . $25 . . . $50 . . . $100 . . . or more if you can . . . to help carry President Nixon's campaign to the people.

As a token of appreciation for your support — and a lasting symbol of your active participation in the historic 1972 Presidential Campaign — I will be happy to send you a unique and priceless keepsake: a special limited edition of our bronze Official 1972 Presidential Campaign Medal struck by the renowned Franklin Mint.

This limited bronze edition medal is being struck only for those who make a contribution of $15 or more at this time. It is literally priceless, since it is not for sale at any price — and is being awarded only to those who participate in the final stages of this great Presidential Campaign.

Your 1972 Presidential Campaign Medal will be a keepsake which you will proudly display at home or in your office as evidence of the important role you played in this critical and historic campaign — a family heirloom which your children and their children will be thankful you acquired and saved for them.

Money is desperately needed to help take the President's message before the people . . . to pay for TV and radio time and to write to millions of American voters. Please join us in supporting President Nixon for re-election by sending your check for $15.00 . . . $25.00 . . . $50.00 . . . $100.00 . . . or more today.

Cordially,
Maurice H. Stans
Chairman

Letters to the Editor Policy:

In order to accommodate as many letters as possible in this rag; all letters to the editor should be submitted on dried papyrus 20 pound bond and written in brown ink made by Buddhist Monks in Nepal from the blood of a small weasel. Since we are serving an academic institution, it will be necessary to have all letters in the form of a Shakesperian sonnet of iambic pentameter. The only restriction upon publication is that all letters must have the words "orange," "Zanzabar," and "piezo-electric" in the closing couplet. This policy has been instituted in the hopes of encouraging the members of the formerly apathetic student body to bring their grievances before their fellow students.

Dear Friend:

Historians of the future may write whole chapters about the extraordinary part played by people like you in this 1972 presidential campaign.

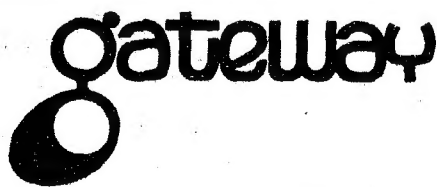

Never before have so many hundreds of thousands of ordinary citizens mailed in contributions to keep a campaign alive.

This unprecedented outpouring of support has already amazed the so-called experts who said Sargent Shriver and I didn't have a chance. Thanks to the priceless support of our Million-Member Club of contributors, our campaign is growing daily in strength and excitement.

But we still have a long way to go. The toughest part of the campaign lies just ahead.

Please help us carry this choice to the American people by sending us your contribution. Without the unstinting support of those who keenly appreciate the special importance of this election, we may not succeed. But with such support, we cannot fail.

Sincerely yours,
George McGovern

Faculty Chair

Any students interested in constructing makeshift classroom platforms, please come to Lot 4 TONIGHT at midnight. Visiting guest lecturer Dr. Goortmann Jameson from the University of Idaho at Las Vegas, a fellow in the Society of Hardhats, explains that "If you sit in a chair on the fifth floor of a five-story classroom/office building on the mall, it is the same as sitting on top of a five-story-high stepladder, which is analogous to walking on the ground compared to walking on a girder a mile in the air — it's only different if you look down or fall off."

Dr. Jameson says stepladders of any size will do. Academic credit available.

Dance Held

Chi Lambda Alpha fraternity will sponsor a Campus Hunt Party THIS SUNDAY from 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. in the "Dipping Dive Bar." Rathound will play. Dancing available.

BC Meets

The Biography Club will meet as scheduled this week. We will meet in Lot 5, second level. Please bring your own stepladder, since there may not be enough to go around. (Then you'd have to sit on the first level of Lot 5, where the Christian Atheists are meeting.)

Readers

This Friday's Gateway has been cancelled since there isn't any more Gateway office and no hall boxes to put it in. However, anyone wishing to absorb the information contained in the paper can go to the urinals in Lot 1 (mysteriously left behind when the Engineering Building vanished) and read the rough drafts. Layouts and headline styles will be provided to enable readers to visualize what the finished Gateway would have looked like.

CA Meets

The Christian Atheists will meet this week in Lot 5. Be sure to attend as we will be discussing how to fight the rumor that the campus' disappearance was an "Act of God."

Science Lecture

Due to the unscheduled disappearance of the structural campus facilities at 60th and Dodge at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, the Forms of Science lecture, "Living Through Labs," will be held in Lot 10. Check the campus blueprints for exact location.

FCC Meets

"Friends of Constructive Construction" will meet THIS THURSDAY at the Prom Town House garage at 6:20 a.m. to hold an open hearing on our plans for alternatives to the 60th and Dodge campus site.

"This is a wonderful opportunity to re-locate the campus and end the threat to the park! Save the mall! Save your homes!"

Records Needed

Due to the vanishing of school records kept in the disappeared buildings, all students planning to attend classes second semester must re-register, and it would be appreciated if students would bring in their past report cards so files can be re-built on hours earned, grades, etc. Remember — honesty is the best policy (though not the best GPA).

The Foreign Language Department is debating whether their students should take-over all tests administered this semester. This is only a rumor.

Lunch Talk

SPO announces that the Dining-In guest speaker this coming Monday will be Assistant to the Chancellor for Planning Dr. Rex Engebretson, who will speak on the topic: "What We'd Do If We Had It To Do All Over Again (heh heh heh)," or "My Dream Come True."

Sandy Baxter also wishes to announce that when the Milo Bail Student Center was stolen, the posters went with it, and if and when the building returns, any posters remaining therein must be re-stamped to be valid.

Need responsible young men for business oriented employment; call 391-7821.

SAMeets

The Society for the Addition to Management will meet TONIGHT to figure out how anyone managed to steal an entire campus. The meeting will be in what used to be MBSC 301 before it was stolen.

Sign Up Now

Campus Security wishes to remind all students that the sudden disappearance of "differentiators" — such as signs, white stripes, medians, and curbs — is no excuse for parking illegally. Campus Security advises that they have records showing where each lot used to be, and violators will be ticketed.

Food Service Comes Out Clean

In my never-ending search for the finer cuisine created in our burg I have stumbled upon an establishment that is truly rare in its samplings not to mention its motif. The delicacies served by the food service in the Milo Bail Student Center on the UNO campus offer a rare experience to the senses, eyes, nose and especially the palate.

It was under rather unusual circumstances that I made this profound discovery. Let me explain. I am an employee of the Department of Health's investigation bureau, and it was through an order that I happened into the quaint little building on 62nd and Dodge.

At 11:30 A.M. that fateful morning a note was delivered to my desk. I glanced up from my typewriter and quickly scanned the orders on it from my superior. The note read:

"Report of city health codes being ignored by the food service at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Complaints of ptomaine poisoning, dysentery and other such related diseases breaking out at epidemic rate. Investigate immediately."

Packing my special provisions (alka-seltzer, sodium benzoate, Blue Cross Blue Shield card, copy of my last will and testament, etc.) I began my journey to the school.

Upon arriving I immediately noted something quite peculiar. My eyes beheld that most students were eating out of brown paper sacks (known as brown bagging it) or were munching on delicacies from several of the food establishments in the general vicinity. Those who weren't engaged in this oral activity seemed to be thin and listless with a sickly drawn look about them. I automatically attributed this to their being members of the drug craze currently running rampant on our nation's campuses.

With a firm grip on my briefcase I entered the building and proceeded with expediency to the cafeteria. As I entered the domain I was instantly impressed with the "early filth" motif and the strange odor that permeated the room. Urging myself on I proceeded to the line and, once within, beheld a varied sampling of what appeared to be digestible items.

Then it caught my attention. In the corner there was posted a series of pictures (mine included) of local health officials.

A purely reflex action drove my hand into my case and emerged with my fake glasses, nose and mustach disguise. I think however that my motions came a few moments too late for when I reached the end of the line the cashier smiled and said, "My you are lucky. You're the 10,000th person to pass through this line this year. All items are free with our compliments."

I chose not to question this unusual occurrence and proceeded to a table. After cleaning off a spot large enough for my tray I sat and prepared myself for whatever was to come. I must say that the meal was truly amazing. It can only be described as a rare experience.

Another strange occurrence came about when I evidently broke tradition and bussed my own dishes. As I was placing the tray on the conveyor belt an arm reached out and handed a plain brown-wrapped package. Upon opening it I discovered $5,000 in small bills. I had no idea that the operators of the establishment would be that grateful for a mere chore such as that I had performed.

After my afternoon experience with the university's food service I reported that I was shocked that anyone could have submitted such a complaint. They were very generous with all portions and all things considered I could find nothing wrong with what they offered.

Mystery investigator

"My motions came a few moments too late."

Food service cuisine . . . "Generous portions and plenty of it."

Malfeasance Alleged

The last 27 issues of the Gateway have been identical, it was disclosed today.

A check of the newspaper's offices found them abandoned and covered with dust and cobwebs. A search of the rooms turned up only an aged handwritten copy of an editorial supporting Muskie for President, a broken chair, a secret plan to end the war, a pawn ticket from Tony's Quick Loan for nine used typewriters, and a set of wax lips.

Gateway publisher F. Donald Hearst was reported vacationing in Switzerland and could not be reached for comment.

A spokesman for the paper, who asked not to be identified, said, "We put together a student senate story, a Roskens article, and a thing on Regent Kermit Hansen last summer. We took the sports stories from last year's Gateway and the letters to the editor from TIME. Then we laid it out and had 200,000 copies printed. After that we just had a guy deliver some of them twice a week."

"We didn't mean any harm," he concluded. "We didn't know anybody ever read the paper and we just didn't think anyone would notice."

On Campus Beer Possible

The NU Board of Regents and the Nebraska Unicameral may consider legislation this session to allow beer on campus.

One administrator who will probably back the move is, of course, Vice-Chancellor Ronald S. Beer.

"Beer has been allowed on campus on a tentative basis pending the outcome of official actions concerning alcohol," according to an uninformed source who is often high and in university circles. "If this move fails, the Vice-Chancellor is rumored to be considering changing his name to something less offensive like Milk or perhaps Coffee."

Asked to comment further, the official declined, saying, "This play on words is already so stale and outworn that I'd rather keep the story as short as possible."

New Devices Installed

University of Nebraska at Omaha students will once again be able to use urinals while on campus. The Director of Campus Expansion announced that a number of temporary urinals have been installed outside the Dean of Student Personnel's office.

Installation of the temporary fixtures was supervised by a bald man with a southern accent who kept saying, "Hurreeh, Pleeze hurreeh!"

Use of the new temporary urinals was necessitated after University System officials authorized the removal and sale of the permanent fixtures to pay reparations to gas stations and motorists in Lincoln who were visited by a Heistman Trophy winner during his off hours.

An unsuccessful applicant for governor and regent said of the removal of the permanent fixtures, "When they've got to go, they've got to go."

UNO, Where Art Thou?

Republicans hailed the action as "an admirable cost-cutting move" and praised the university for the way in which it was handled.

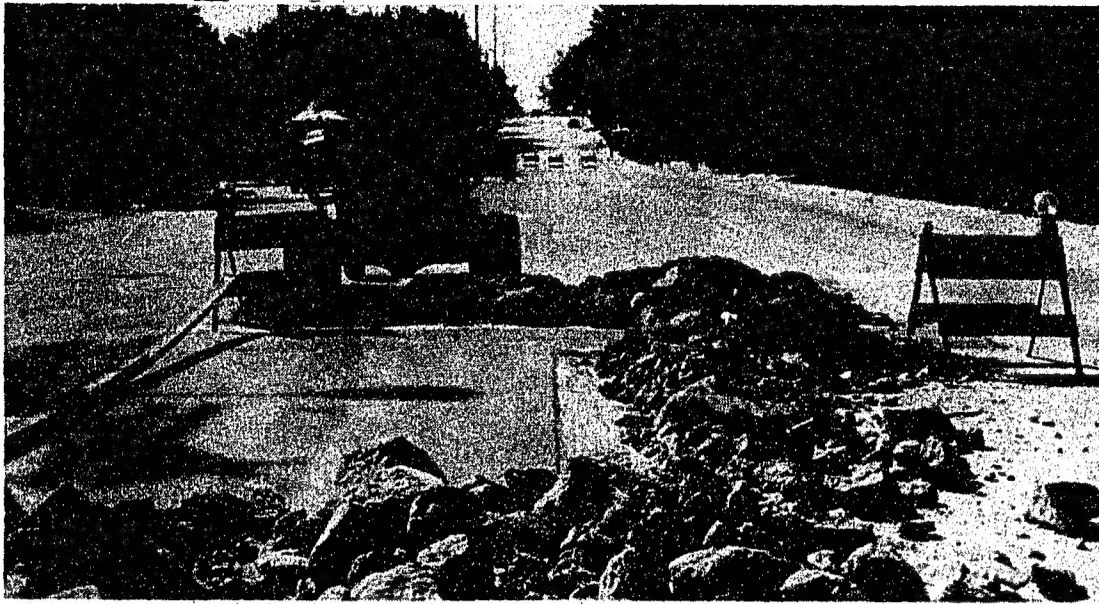

The Young Democrats were asked to comment on the campus disappearance and they replied they felt the campaign was progressing well and that McGovern would be even in the polls by the first week of October.

Activists Upset

In other developments, the UNO Association of Campus Radicals held a demonstration march to protest the campus disappearance. An ACR spokesman maintained the "rip-off" of UNO was "just another paternalistic ploy on the part of the administration to prevent the scheduled burning of the campus from taking place next week." The radicals presented a list of demands calling for the erection of temporary and highly combustible classrooms for the organization to burn in protest of the action.

The last word from the administration at press time was a further denial of the loss of the campus. While admitting that it may have been "misplaced," they claimed it was not "irretrievably gone," and announced the formation of a university search committee to determine the whereabouts of the buildings. They also announced the cancellation of all classes and other functions until further notice.

The program leading to a Bachelor of Opinion degree will discard the traditional textbook approach and concentrate on developing the student's innate abilities for "gut reaction" and use of "common sense."

Other programs in the works, said Lunch, will offer students an alternative to the customary liberal arts and will concentrate instead on the conservative arts such as red-baiting, witch-hunting and character assassination. Physical education courses will include body building and budget balancing.

Advanced degrees are tentatively scheduled in Combat Leadership and Fast Food Restaurant Administration.

Lunch will be paid $19,500 annually plus a ten per cent commission.

Unification Proposed

by Name Withheld by Request

A startling bill is to be introduced into the senate this week, informed Washington sources disclosed late yesterday afternoon. The bill, entitled The National Unification Act, will be introduced by the White House.

The bill purports to guarantee a $10,850 annual income to a family of two, provide free medical care and education to all citizens, officially outlaw the use of the word "white" in reference to all U.S. citizens now holding that title, and increase "Planck's Constant" by a factor of ten.

The reduction of the significator of spacial relations is the key point, administrative sources revealed, and the bill would be "highly unacceptable" with any senatorial tampering of the proposed change in the famous constant.

President Nixon attacked the constant as "prohibitive," and told vacationing Vatican personnel "there is no reason in the world we should go along with this snobbish intellectual's idea of how the world — and specifically this country, which I am proud to serve just as you, respectively, I'm sure are proud to serve the Vatican, which we respect as one of the true fortresses of freedom in the world, and extend our deep appreciation to all the Catholic peoples of the world — ought to operate."

"Checkers" speech brings overwhelming reaction.

Meanwhile, Vice Spiro President Agnew is busily drumming up support for the bill among stars in Hollywood. Calling Planck an "outmoded bag of wind with his head in a book instead of television and movies," called on all the really with-it Hollywood crowd to band together in favor of the adjustment.

There appears to be some contention mounting within factions of the senate regarding the constitutionality of the proposed bill, as well as its feasibility. Agnew said the contentions "had about as much substance as this podium here will after the bill passes." He was greeted with thunderous applause.

President Nixon, contacted at his December home in the Chase Manhattan Bank Building, was questioned regarding the possible need for a court decision on the bill's constitutionality. "I've consulted with the Highest Authority of Them All," the President responded, "and He and His Lovely Wife told me that although I drive a hard bargain, and a General Motors product, I am the President and I should get what I want."

Nixon also noted that the Lord "privately thinks Billy Kilmer of the Washington Redskins stepped way out of line" for remarks made Sunday, but that the pro quarterback will be forgiven if he throws Nixon a few passes in his locker room under the White House.

Bookmaker Talks While Eating

From the time when the Municipal University of Omaha was forced to change its location from the Stockyards area to the present site in 1938 we have had a proud history of great traditions. There has been an unbroken chain of winning football teams and the enthusiasm of our cheerleaders has wormed them into the hearts of the alumni.

Keeping with this great heritage we have been allowed to keep our precious memories of college and beer parties alive through the leatherbound campus annual. The man responsible for this years cruise through nostalgia, Clyde Slaughter appeared at this weeks "dinner with a decision maker" sponsored by SPO.

While dining over the Monday special 'fricaseed cafeteria worker' Slaughter explained the philosophy behind this year's publication. The principle was to keep the unwashed masses from contaminating the book, only the editor and his assistant editor Stan Campus and photographer Hohn Windley were privileged enough to contribute material.

Too Early

The question was brought up by one of the students present that this years publication was of questionable relevance since it was published before school started. In his usual professional control of every situation Slaughter commented that "Every year the same news happens on campus so all we did was take the most outstanding news stories of the past and reprint them." Not to be outmaneuvered by the glib editor, the student thought he really had the 'butcher' (a personification of Slaughter's name) when he brought up the fact that one of the stories on the photo page was about a student who was a bomber pilot in World War II.

Being rather quick on the uptake Slaughter replied, "It is obvious that you are unaware of the makeup of UNO's student populace. Over half of the senior class are either still on active duty or are retired military personnel. They feel a little more at home with pictures of bomb craters and maimed bodies dotting the landscape."

Cost Cutting

The next question came from student body Captain James Applesauce, US Army (ret.) who while in a warm glow of appreciation for Slaughter's last comment decided he would ask a question that would allow the editor to take pride in his accomplishments. The question centered around the length of the last issue and how much it cost the students.

"Well," Slaughter replied, "We reduced the size to only twelve pages, cutting the cost by 800 per cent and we donated the surplus to a worthy cause — the UNO chapter of the Middle Aged Americans for Facism. (MAF).

Taking the opportunity to dispel rumors that there was dissention between Slaughter and his staff — Stan Campus and Hohn Windey, he commented that "These two fine upstanding gentlemen have always given me moral support and they have been in particularly good humor every pay day."

As to what the future holds for the office he had held (editor and chief and president of the movement to promote high standards of Journalism in the area of how to build slander and libel cases) Slaughter had much to say.

All the News . . .

"We have a new office on the fourth floor of the Student Circle building and we have high expectations. We may change the name but the traditions are still the same. All the news that no one else will print is still our motto. And contrary to popular rumors I will not take another term as editor. The people out there need me, and I have a duty to respond to their cries for help."

Another page has been burned in UNO history with the passing of Clyde (Butcher) Slaughter and one which we are not soon to forget. Each and every time we pull out our hardcover yearbook and the tears begin to swell in our eyes we will know that someone, somewhere, cared enough for us to pour out their souls to us for the small cost to us of only $9.95. Gee, thanks butcher.

Parts Ban Imminent at UNO

The official declined to say specifically what was planned, but hinted that the ruling "will allow us to get to the real root of the problem, not merely the nude display of genitals and breasts, but the very presence of genitals and breasts within the city."

"I have visited the UNO campus on several different occasions," he continued, "and every time I noticed that nearly all the coeds had breasts. They were always covered, but they weren't fooling anybody about what was underneath."

"Wearing clothing is just a deceitful way of getting around the laws forbidding public nudity," he said.

Erogenous Zoning Board

The official asked not to be quoted, but went on to say that the city was considering the establishment of an Erogenous Zoning Board to determine what other parts of the body would be banned within the city.

A state liquor official was contacted and said he was elated by the court's ruling. He said the next step would be to ask the high court for permission to shut down bars where employees and customers have impure thoughts. Eventually, he predicted, "the Nixon court will give local governments total control over public morality."

He said local authorities should seize the initiative on local morality thought control while they still have "a sympathetic ear" in Washington, because the federal government already has "too much control over local matters."

He stated he had had conversations with an unidentified city councilman and that an ordinance would soon be introduced to outlaw impure thoughts concerning certain parts of the body which he refused to mention within the city limits.

Unidentified coed, in midst of impure thought, attempts to conceal private parts of body from view.

Stormy Senate Session Subsides Suddenly

It started like any other student presidential election; with Great Aspirations.

The only problem is, there's so much aspiring going on that the aspirants tend to get into each others' way. Traces of intrigue have even seeped into that most venerable of bodies — the student senate. Visible degeneration can be seen taking place as one senator after another is forced to resign from all his duties in order to pursue fulltime the challenges of political hen-pecking.

The pressures have eventually wreaked havoc on the meetings and morales of all concerned. And it has finally culminated in the senators storming the speaker's podium shouting "We warned you!" to that unfortunate aspirant who went down with cries of "Liar!". It did him no good. His charisma (and physique) have been permanently damaged.

The election commissioner has decided to put a stop to such undignified proceedings. He has deemed it a "conflict of interests" for a student senator to run for president. And since the senate has previously barred students from holding any executive or senatorial office under the same rationale, some difficulty has ensued in finding people eligible to run.

The commissioner has solved this problem too, by appointing a board, with himself as a member, specifically for the purpose of naming presidential nominees.

Their duties are sharply delineated, however, by the fact that the commissioner is the only person eligible for the office since he is neither student nor senator, but janitor. Consequently, the election commissioner has a good chance of winning the election himself, that is, if he can get enough students to vote. The only ones eligible are those which take an oath of allegiance to the Regents. Which only goes to show how conflicting interests can be.

Unidentified bystander shouts warning to senator about to be attacked.

Eyein' Sports . . .

CLOSE STRUGGLE . . . going up for the dunk intercept is number 92 (left) while the referee signals the foul on Menski. Number 23 for the Bruins gapes in amazement (center) as the end run sends Number 12 up for the hook-in and the referee cocks his arm (left) to give Number 45 a fist to stop him from making illegal yardage on an icing call.

Tilters Fall In Conto

by Stan Carter
Sports Enthusiast

Coach Bob Anthony's cage griders lost a tight upset runaway last night, but earned the respect of the local, booing crowd during a tightly-sweated defeat.

With no facilities in which to compete, the burden of credibility and the awarding of points fell to the unsung heroes — the umpires and referees and line judges.

These officials did a fine job during the game despite loud protests from both sides. On one rebound, the kick sailed through the air and the referee ruled it "good," after which loud boos arose from the crowd of partisan, impartial spectators from the surrounding community.

Since there were no goal posts, baskets, nor boundary lines, the referees had to be "johnny on the spot" to make their calls.

Ronald Ligorzy had his usual great game, capping a scoring drive with a hurdling toss to put the close game out of reach with only two quarters to play in the Conto.

As the clock ran out, UNO frosh Myron Flourish tabbed an intercept and charged it down the court, only to have a teammate called for icing.

Here's how the scoring went:

UNO	1	3	0	0	0	4
V.C.T.R.	1	0	3	3	3	10
FIRST CANTO: Namath to Maynard, PAT no good.
SECOND STRING: Elston to Howard, wide to the left.
THIRD PERIOD: Hull . . . assist by Shipley.
FOURTH QUARTER: Long bomb—defused.
FIFTH SEGMENT: No scoring.

This puts the Mavericks one up in the conference, and thus out of the race for a bowl crown. A championship seems right around the bend.

Science CAN be fun, and this has been proved by the Forum On Science. The last escapade into the realm of the unknown made known by known scientists who know what's happening — unlike these social science people who've been really goofing it up — is TONIGHT at 7:30 p.m. in Allwine Hall 135. It's "Through a Looking Glass Darkly (Electron Microscopy)" and this is the talk you may attend. Sounds sort of like The 21st Century, doesn't it?

Learning doesn't have to be math or Physics or grammar or the language requirement! It can be fun stuff like Ecology And The Consumer, Jan. 3-16, 9-11:30 a.m. in Admin. 102, costing $25.

Or it could be Chess: An Introduction, Jan. 8-12, 7-9 p.m., Eppley Conference Center Lounge, for $10.00.

Or would you be cognizant of Bob Dylan: Poet And Prophet, Jan. 11, 7-10 p.m., Eppley Conference Center Auditorium, free of charge — Open to the public.

Maybe perhaps Chemistry Review, Jan. 8-12, 9-12 noon, in Allwine Hall Room 422 for $20.00.

These are special non-credit courses offered during the Intercession. Brochures and registration details are available in the Eppley Conference Center, Library Building.

Dampus?

"The end. He knew this was it — the last Around Campus Announcement. His worn fingers strutted on the faded likeness of the ribboned letters he indelibly on the paper with an immortal SNAP!

That is short fiction. "In the cold and in the dampus, there will be no more Around Campus . . ."

That is poetry. "STAN: Goodbye, students; this is farewell. STUDENTS: No, Stan, no! Stay, Stan, stay!"

This is a play. "In the history of the Gateway, there has never been a craftsman of words, an architect of letters, a phrase-sculptor like Stan Carter. Around Campus came from the dry dust of dullness, and he made it shine like a . . ."

This is a literary essay.

If you have written things like the above, you can send them to UNO's literary anthology, the Grain of Sand, Annex 21, UNO, P.O. Box 688 Downtown Station, Omaha, Neb. 68101. Include your name and address (how else can the identity be nurtured?) Type them, double space them, and if you want them returned, include a return envelope with sufficient stamps on it. The deadline is FEBRUARY 20TH.

This is the last day of school. Tomorrow's "Dead Day" — nothing happens. After finals, school does not resume until January 18th, 1973. If you took advantage of early registration, pay your $75 (or total tuition and fees if, by some miracle, this is less than $75) between Dec. 18th and Jan. 9th.

If you did not take advantage of early registration, final registration (registering to take finals at the end of next semester) is January 15-16. Registration and changes are Jan. 17th.

Now aren't you glad you started school in the middle of summer? This is college, pal.

Hello, Joe

ANNCR . . . You just saw the "Channel Seven Big Money 3:30 Movie" — called the "3:30 Movie" because that's how many minutes are left in it after we've edited it. (Run end logo reel, runs :15).

(Station I.D. key) ANNCR . . . This is K E T V, colorful channel seven, the viewer's choice. (Replace key with hot frame from D. A. Clark show logo reel.)

ANNCR . . . Time now for "D. A. Clark's Words of Wisdom." (Music on and under) D.A.? (music up, roll intro film. Runs :5).

(Camera One on Clark, dissolve from film, music down and out.)

CLARK . . . Gosh. There are immediate openings on all Student Government Committees. The committees are in the process of getting ready for the next semester. Thus, all interested students (Camera Two) who have wanted to bring their own ideas to student government are urged to apply for the various positions available.

(Camera One) If interested, (music on and under) leave your application with (Super Line Imposed) the nice Student Government secretary, Mrs. Berenson in MBSC 232. (music up).

(Roll end log reel, roll super credit cylinder impose.)

THE HIPPODROME

SPO EVENTS

Famed dance artist Toots LaRue will appear in the MBSC Ballroom next Friday at twenty minute intervals between 8 p.m. and one a.m.

Known feminist and SPO President Sandy Baxter said the show is part of her organization's attempt to "display both sides of an issue."

"I don't think students need to be shielded from the bare facts of life," she said. "We shouldn't try to hide anything from them."

Miss LaRue will perform her act, "An Ode to Nature," and then be available for "small group interaction sessions" afterward, for a nominal fee.

Asked if she expected any interference from the administration, Miss LaRue said she would consider that "a constitution of my prostititutional rights."

Hippodrome Awards

If Stan Carter can give out awards, so can I.

My first award for Administrative-Diplomacy-Above-And-Beyond-The-Call-Of-Duty goes to M. West, CCS Counselor, and J. Cox, Director of Admissions.

Concerning wine, my first award, the Annual Gallo Bros. Award, goes to Kenneth Fishburn and Alex Besaloff, wine expert and author of the Signet Book of Wine (It makes a great Xmas gift). Kenneth (Mike) is assistant lead man of the custodial night shift. His homemade wine is extraordinary.

My Boss Award goes to Jeff Renner, Gateway editor, friend and a very tolerant man, and Walt Harris, night lead man of the custodial night shift. Walt and Jeff somehow remain unflustered, no matter what chaos goes on.

My Comeraderie Award goes to Bill Lane, and Tommy O'Neill, Stan Maliszewski, Ery Seidel, and John Macek.

John Windler, Stan Carter and Mary Wees get my When-I-Need-An-Unbiased-Opinion-The-Most-Award.

My Kamikaze Award goes to Terry Humphrey.

The Name-Most-Mentioned-In-The-World/Herald-Award goes to Sandy Baxter and J. C. Casper

And finally, my Catch-All Award goes to Stan Carter, Todd Simon and everyone who will miss kicking me around next semester

My Absolutely Final Award goes to Sarah McNeill, my wife, with the promise that I won't get involved again and I'll spend more time at home (until next semester starts).
